CRESTLINE HIGH SCHOOL CRESTLINE, OHIO VOLUME XXXIX

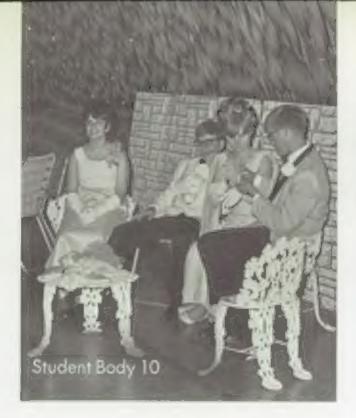

Our thanks to the tollowing people for supporting the 1967 Spectrum

John Berger Christopher Bertsche E. C. Brandt Louis H. Bresin H. M. Brooks F. B. Cattey Nelson Garner Charles Miller R. Douglas Myers T. D. Sawyer Leo Sconlon

INTRODUCTION

To the scientist, the word spectrum denotes a complete, continuous range of electromagnetic wave frequencies. Spectrum at Crestline High School is excitement, people, classes, noise, teachers and fun!

The 1966-67 academic, social, and physical year is best presented through the visual language of photography.

CONTENTS

THE EXCITEMENT

Perhaps the most exciting period during the school year is football season. A winning team is always certain to inspire enthusiasm and the will to participate among the students and faculty members alike.

The thrills of a hard-fought game, the pageantry of Homecoming, the bonfires, snake dances, frozen fingers and sore throats all combine to make football season the biggest and most memorable of the year.

THE PEOPLE

If you were to ask someone to describe a school you would be very likely to get a detailed description of a large brick building with large windows, several lang corridors with lockers on either side, a gymnosium for sports events, an auditorium where concerts and theatrical productions are held, flourescent lighting, a cafeteria where "food" is served and, of course, that terrifying den of horrors that strikes fear into the hearts of men—the office

But a school is more than a cold lifeless building. A school is people. A school is the sum total of the minds and hearts of hundreds of human beings gathered together for the purpose of the gaining and imparting of knowledge—the knowledge of algebra, chemistry and English and, more importantly, the knowledge of life.

Some of these people stand out as bold individuals. Others are only faces in the crowd. In any case, each contributes something of what the school is. Each one's contribution, however insignificant it may seem, is a vital unit in the structure of the whole. Remove one person or add another and our lives are suddenly different

TWO IN A ROW!

For the second straight year Crestline's Art and Industrial Arts Departments combined to take first place honors among Exempted Village School Districts at the Ohio State Industrial Arts Exhibit. Projects ranging from coffee tables and stereo consoles to block prints and ceramics won a total of thirty-two blue ribbons.

This accomplishment is a direct reflection of the fine work being done by Mr. Paul Zwayer, Mr. Jim Klopfenstein, and Mr. Bill Klopfenstein, who together have built the Art and Industrial Arts Departments into extremely productive organizations which exert a great influence on the entire school.

SOME ENCHANTED EVENING

It was some enchanted evening for the juniors and seniors at the 1967 prom. The festivities began with a banquet where guests were entertained by the beautiful voice of Mrs. Ames and a comical skit put on by members of the junior class. After the banquet a dance was held with the romantic setting of a southern mansion. From a showboat came the beautiful strains of music provided by Walt Kepler's Band

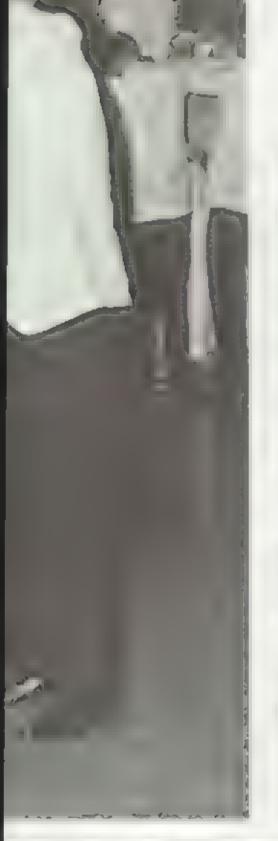

A postprom was held at Park Lanes where everybody enjoyed playing pool and bowling

KIDDIES' DAY . . .

... THE DAY WHEN THE SENIORS PROVED BE-YOND ALL SHADOW OF A DOUBT THAT CHRONO-LOGICAL AGE BEARS NO RELATIONSHIP WHATSO-EVER TO MENTAL MATURITY.

The year has come to an end. For the graduating seniors, it marked a turning point in their lives. Some will go an to bigger and better things. Some will go downhill. None will remain the same

The graduates will undaubtedly strive for success Each will have his own goal and will pursue it in his own way. However if any expects to achieve his goal, he must receive the inspiration that can only come from knowing one's self and realizing the basic underlying purpose behind all our lives
